State Auditor Jno. P. Gordon on the School Fund.

A great deal has been said recently in regard to the apportionment of public school funds. There is no cause for alarm from any quarter. The school children will get every dollar that is coming to them. The Mandamus Suit to settle this question is absolutely necessary at this time.

For many years it has been a mooted question as to what the intention of the law was in regard to the apportionment of this money. The expert accountants appointed last winter by a Legislative Committee, on making their report on this office, used the following language:

"In the course of our examination we checked all appropriations for the two biennial periods into the appropriation ledgers and checked the various transfers authorized by statute or ordered by the Board of Education. We observed, however, that the Auditor has some difficulty in making the periodical transfer of one-third of Ordinary Revenue to State School Moneys. The reason for this is that there is no definition of Ordinary Revenue so that he has to decide for himself and we found that he did not take the same items each time he made the transfer. We believe that it would be advisable to have a definition made of the term 'Ordinary Revenue'."

I simply want to do what the law requires; and I wish to say to the public that I am the custodian of this money and am under heavy bond and I wish to emphatically state that not a single, solitary dollar of this money will ever get away from the school children—and it never was intended that it should get away.

It does not make any difference what the Court's decision may be. If the Court decides in favor of the law as it has been formerly construed, the balance of the $500,000.00 will immediately be apportioned to the children of the State. If the Court's decision should be against former practices, I shall hold the money in a separate fund to itself, and not a single, solitary cent of it shall be used to pay any other demand or account against the State. And the Governor has agreed with me that, if necessary, he will call the Legislature in Extra Session to make the special appropriation for the public schools.

I wish to say in closing, that there is no cause whatever for alarm, and to repeat that not a single, solitary dollar will get away from the school children; and this is the wish and desire of every State official. But it is important that the question shall now be settled by the Court for future guidance.

To the President's Critics.

When the Arabic was sunk there was instant demand on the part of certain critics of the Administration for an immediate rupture of diplomatic relations with Germany. How short is the step from this point to war the history of nations proves. President Wilson refused to be stampeded, and quietly announced that he proposed to wait until the facts were fully before him before taking action. Now comes a telegram to the German Ambassador from his home Government, declaring that the Government has, as yet, no official knowledge of the occurrence, asking that action be deferred until Germany's side of the case be heard and asserting that if Americans have lost their lives on the steamer that it was "contrary to the intentions" of the Berlin Government. At the moment we should like merely to ask the President's critics two questions: When the action came, after such deliberation, has it ever smacked of weakness or indecision? And, second, in view of the tense and temper of the dispatch just received from Berlin, do the jingoes wish that the President had broken off diplomatic relations with Germany last Friday, regardless of the incompleteness of his information as to what had happened, and how it affected matters in dispute?—St. Louis Republic.

Care of Poultry.

The Missouri State Poultry Experiment Station at Mountain Grove, in extending the scope of its work in prevention and cure of poultry diseases, has secured the services of Prof. G. D. Horton as bacteriologist.

Prof. Horton will devote considerable time to research work in connection with bacillary white diarrhea, roup, banker, chicken pox and black head.

Blood samples will be taken by Station employees wherever it is possible to visit flocks, at a cost of five cents per bird, and flocks which are free from white diarrhea, bacillary roup, and other diseases, will be certified. In one year's time he reduced the baby chick mortality in a large Oregon flock from 65 per cent to 2 per cent.

"To prevent your young chicks dying from White Diarrhea, bacillary form, or in other words to raise strong, vigorous, healthy chicks, you must breed from strong, vigorous, healthy stock. If your chicks have been dying from white diarrhea, bacillary form, you may take it for granted your breeding stock is unhealthy. Now the problem is to weed out the unhealthy infected fowl. This can be done easily by means of the blood test."

Write the Missouri State Poultry Experiment Station, Mountain Grove, for further information.
